New Demension Clothing

Dear Valued customer this magazine is one of my first issues, it has been designed only for wholesale customers. It's full of information on our new updates, kids to tween fashion, fabrics, our cute models and new offers for the month. Prices are clearly marked, excluding tax's international conversions have been added, all products are made in Australia including fabrics and all our resources.

Our sizes go down to size 6 and up to size 16. In this issue we have added behind the scene photography by Eugene. We have included our under $ 70.00 shopping page for Boys and Girls wear, many styles to choose from. We have provided a service when you shop with us fabric samples can be ordered online for colour and feel, all for convenience.

TALKING POINTS

From top left: Salvador Dalí in 'Doll America' (1948); Grace Kelly (1955); Audrey Hepburn (1955); all from Philippe Haloman's 'Jump Road'

BOOKS

JUMP FOR JOY

Philippe Haloman captures the spirit of famous figures

The American portrait photographer Philippe Haloman believed that the elation of a jump allowed the mask to fall, so that the real person appeared. His 1959 photobook - republished in September - collects nearly 200 shots of his famous subjects mid-air, including a curious peek at Grace Kelly as she hitches her skirt up, and Audrey Hepburn in joyful mid-twirl. Philippe Haloman's Jump Road! (C30, Dumont). HELENA LEE

FESTIVALS SYBARITIC SHORES

The charm of Festival No 6 lies in the unlikely mix of performers (including Irvine Welsh, Laine Paull, Grace Jones and Kate Tempest), the hedonistic banquets and its delightfully quirky location: Portmeirion, an Italianate village on the Snowdonian coast. Festival No 6 (www.festivalnumber6.com).
